1819-5-G8501R027

Course title

Historical culture and the problems and methods of the didactics of history

Topics and course structure

General history and historical culture. Issues and methods of History teaching.

Objectives

Updating of historical and historiographical notions.

Developing awareness and methods of teaching history.

In the conviction that the understanding of didactic methods cannot be separated from critical awareness of the diverse disciplinary areas and contents, the course has two main purposes: 1) strengthen the students' historical culture by offering fundamental concepts of reference and advanced notions, beyond the level proposed by ordinary textbooks and appropriate for an active didactic approach (social, cultural and material history)- Knowledge and Understanding; 2) develop the students' interest in History - a subject whose significance may not have been fully appreciated in school - and their awareness of the purposes and of the problems and methods of history teaching, creating opportunities to refine their competences in the planning of well-grounded and inclusive educational activities (Applying Knowledge and Understanding).
