Course title

Social Inclusion as pedagogical issue and educational practice: cultural, structural and methodological dimensions.

Topics and course structure

The course deals with the meanings, dimensions, methodologies, and techniques of pedagogy of social inclusion.

Briefly speaking, pedagogy of social inclusion questions the notions of 'social inclusion' and 'inclusive practice'.

The course deals also with the design, implementation and evaluation of the so called 'inclusive learning environment'.

Main topics of the course:

- The meanings of social inclusion
- Social representations and prejudices, and social and educational acting
- "Educational acting" and social inclusion: the relationship between theory and praxis
- The education as inclusive experience
- Planning and evaluation of "inclusive educational contexts".

Objectives

- Fostering a multidisciplinary understanding of the notions of 'inclusion' and 'inclusive practice', considering their relations with the one of 'exclusion'.
- Analysing social and psychological practices determining social inclusion and exclusion.
- Critical reflection on current models of social inclusion, with particular reference to those dealing with social marginality.
- Understanding the relations among educational sciences, focusing on their contributions to inclusive practices
- Linking theory and practice
- Designing and implementing inclusive practices and inclusive environments.
- Evaluating the role and contribution of social workers' practices in promoting social inclusion.

Methodologies

Experiential learning, peer education, explanation and theoretical analysis of various theories about social and educational inclusion.

Online and offline teaching materials

Case work, slides e videos, available online if it is possible.

Programme and references for attending students

What do "social inclusion" and "pedagogy of social inclusion" mean? Which are the cultural, structural, methodological and pragmatic dimensions that characterized the practices of social inclusion? Which relationship does exist between inclusive experiences and practices and educational experiences and practices?

Starting from these questions, in a participatory way, the course aims first to promote the deconstruction of the idea of social inclusion in the light of the practices of exclusion that have characterized the western tradition, focusing specifically on the contemporary phenomena of new poverties and radicalism. In this perspective, the course will identify the structural and cultural dimensions of the social inclusion, developing a critical reflection on its ambiguities, contradictions, and complexity.

Second, the course focuses on the relationship among practices and meanings of social inclusion and social exclusion, educational practices, and pedagogic knowledge. _____

The main context of intervention is the extra-school one, although some references to school will be necessary.
