The lessons will remain available on the teaching e-learning page for the duration of the academic year.

Assessment methods

The exam is oral and will take place remotely on the WebEx platform.

Attending students will be examined on the topics discussed in class.

Students who are not attending will be questioned on the above mentioned examination program.

For organizational reasons and to facilitate the management of the exams, registration will end five days before the closing of the exam. Students are invited to cancel their registration in case they decide not to attend the roll call.

In addition to registering for the exam through online secretariats - as usual - you should also register for the e-learning platform 2020/21, even if you are enrolled on platforms from previous years and have not yet taken the exam or have never been enrolled on any platform.

Failure to register through online secretariats and on the e-learning platform 2020/2021 prevents the exam from taking place.

Out of course students can contact esamigiuris@unimib.it for any doubts.

Textbooks and Reading Materials

Students who have chosen to follow the lessons will prepare the exam on the lesson notes and slides, as well as on additional in-depth teaching materials, which will be uploaded to the teaching e-learning platform.

Students who could not follow the lessons and were not in a position to study the material provided, can prepare the exam on the following texts:

- D. PULITANO', Diritto penale, Parte generale, Giappichelli, Torino, last edition or, alternatively, MARINUCCI-DOLCINI-GATTA, Manuale di diritto penale. Parte Generale, Giuffrè, Milan, last edition.
- D. PULITANO', Diritto penale. Parte speciale. Part, Vol. I, Tutela della persona, Giappichelli, Turin, last edition, only the following parts: Introduction and chapters from 1 to 7 of Part I (Tutela della vita e dell'integrità fisica).

Direct consultation of the updated edition of the Penal Code is indispensable.

At the time of the examination, the student must declare on which texts the study has been carried out.
