History of Contemporary Philosophy

2021-3-E1901R100

Course title

The main currents of contemporary philosophy

Topics and course structure

The lectures will address the main currents of contemporary philosophy underlying the most important concepts from a pedagogical point of view. In particular I will focus my attention on the following currents: Historicism, Pragmatism, Phenomenology, Psychoanalysis, Logical empiricism, Existentialisms, Marxism, Structuralism

Objectives

To stimulate the student's reflections on the different philosophical options of the contemporary as well as to provide the ontological and expistemological framework of the use of the fundamental philosophical concepts in the pedagogical field.

Methodologies

Lectures and class discussions

Online and offline teaching materials

Programme and references for attending students

The above indicated currents have to be studies on:

Cambiano-Mori, Storia della filosofia contemporanea, Bari-Roma, Laterza

It must also be chosen, in accordance with the professor, a classic of the philosophy of the XX century

Programme and references for non-attending students
