

UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI DI MILANO-BICOCCA

SYLLABUS DEL CORSO

Ear Nose and Throat Diseases

2122-5-H4102D036-H4102D150M

Aims

Aims

The aim of the course is to give to the student the principal basics of pathology and surgery of head and neck district.

At the end of the course, the student will be able to know

- the anato-physiology and clinical exam
- etiopathogenesis, epidemiology, clinical manifestations, differential diagnosis and prognosis of the main diseases of the facial cervical diseases.

Contents

Contents

To identify the main features of the principal diseases of the Head and neck district by nosological, physiopathological and clinical study

Detailed program

Detailed program

NASAL, PARANASAL AND RHINOPHARYNX PATHOLOGY- Manifestations and diagnostic iter in nasal obstruction, rhinolalia, roncopathy and facial pain. Physiopathology and management of epistaxis. Acute and chronic disease of paranasal sinuses. Neoplastic pathology of rhinopharynx, nasal sinuses and nose.

OROPHARYNX PATHOLOGY- Disorders of the oral cavity and oropharynx including: disphagia,odynophagia and trismus, flogistic processes, snoring and taste disorders. Foreign bodies. Neoplastic pathology.

SALIVAR GLAND PATHOLOGY- Manifestations and differential diagnosis, flogistic processes, lithiasis and neoplastic pathology.

LARYNX AND HYPOPHARYNX PATHOLOGY- Manifestations and differential diagnosis of dyspnea, dysphonia, dysphagia, cough, acute and chronic diseases of vocal fold and basics of neoplastic pathology. Trachoesotomy. Lateral and medial neck masses.

EAR PATHOLOGY -basics of Audiology and vestibology; otology: physiopathology of external, middle and internal ear disorders - both flogistic and neoplatic.

Pathology of cranial nerves.

Prerequisites

Objectives of the first year courses

Teaching form

Cycle of Lectures

Textbook and teaching resource

Semester

Second semester

Assessment method

Lessons in attendance, subject to any ministerial changes following the COVID pandemic situation

Office hours
