SYLLABUS DEL CORSO

Storia del Processo Penale

2122-4-A5810136

Learning objectives

The aim of the course is to analyse the main stages in the history of criminal proceedings in Italy and Europe, starting from the Middle Ages and continuing into the contemporary age, in order to provide all students with an adequate understanding of the ways in which criminal judgments are carried out in a perspective of comparison between past, present and future. By examining historical sources, the course aims to guide students in acquiring a greater critical awareness of the history of law and of the criminal process in general, as well as in relation to the existence of deep connections between criminal law and politics, to the regulatory choices made by rulers and to the protection of the fundamental rights of suspects and defendants.

Contents

The course will provide an overview of the historical evolution of the criminal law and procedures focusing on some particularly significant topics such as the political character of criminal procedure, the principles ruling the kind of trials, the rights of the accused, the proof system, the powers of the judge, the role of legislation, law scholars and jurisprudence in the creation of criminal procedure. These topics are going to be examined in some relevant historical moments connoting the changes of societies during times, from the Middle Ages to the Modern and Contemporary era.
