UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI DI MILANO-BICOCCA

COURSE SYLLABUS

Paleoradiology

2122-3-I0303D038

Aims

Providing theoretical instruments to understand potentialities and limitations of Paleoradiology like as anthropological and archaeological methods of studying ancient diseases in the history of medicine.

Contents

The Course program provides students the necessary skill to use methods and techniques of multidisciplinary study of biological remains and ancient artifacts.

Detailed program

- Disciplinary classification

- Historical and technical evolution

- Paleoradiology of the skeleton

- Radiology applied to the study of mummies

- Diagnostic imaging in cultural heritage

Prerequisites

Teaching form

Lectures

Textbook and teaching resource

Paleoradiology, Imaging mummies and fossils

Semester

Second

Assessment method

Attendance

Office hours

By appointment required by mail