SYLLABUS DEL CORSO

Management dell'Impresa Sociale e delle Organizzazioni Non Profit

2122-2-E3901N077

Learning objectives

The course aims to present the main characteristics of non-profit organisations and social enterprises in the Western, European and Italian context. In particular, it will focus on the forms of their social, cultural, political and economic roots.

The aim of the course is to understand the most common social, economic and work dynamics in these organisations: strategic choices of social and economic positioning, relations with users, citizens and public and private institutions in the territories, workers and volunteers, and organisational forms.

Detailed program

The course will first present the approaches to the topic and the teaching method adopted in the course.

It will then present the historical steps of development of non-profit organisations and social enterprises, highlighting the constants, changes and national and territorial specificities.

The course will focus in particular on the systemic transformations that have taken place over the last decade and the different ways in which the non-profit actors are responding to them: social innovation, hybridisation with other territorial institutions and with the profit actors, the new mutualism and the emerging experiences of advocacy coalitions, the reform of the Third Sector and the new Third Sector and Social Enterprise Code, the new forms of co-planning and co-programming, the role of philanthropy, with particular reference to banking foundations.

The course will then focus on the internal dynamics experienced by third sector organisations, with particular reference to the dynamics of entrepreneurial development, emerging organisational cultures, the effects on workers and volunteers, organisational forms, relations with users and citizenship, and the impacts on the organisations' founding missions.

Prerequisites

Post-secondary education skills in logic, general culture, learning, writing and oral communication

Teaching methods

1) Lectures, in Italian.

2) For attending students, laboratory teaching will be provided with working groups, analysis of written and audiovisual documents and, if possibile, on field trips.

3) During the course, specific case studies will be analyzed and protagonists of non-profit organisations and social enterprises will present their experience and reflexions.

Assessment methods

For all students enrolled in the course, the examination will be oral, with questions relating to the readings that will be proposed in each lesson and that will be indicated on the course's e-learning platform.

For students who attend at least 75% of the course, it will be possible to work on and present individual or group papers, which will be added to the oral exam grade with a score ranging from 1 to 4 points.
