UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI DI MILANO-BICOCCA

COURSE SYLLABUS

Modern History

2122-1-E1901R117

Course title

Human rights and new social orders in early modern times

Topics and course structure

The course is in Italian. It is focused on social, political and cultural history in early modern times (late 15th century to early 19th century). The first part offers a detailed introduction to the course of events in this period (in Europe and the world). For the second part of the course, monographic subjects are always selected that are more generally relevant to modernity, that is, to present day concerns. The purpose is to promote the knowledge and understanding of this historical period. A further general purpose is to develop intellectual and cultural tools for a better understanding of past and present society.

Objectives

Students will familiarize with 1) the basic chronologies and historical facts of early modern times; 2) historiographical terms; 3) methods of critical analysis of historiography.

Core skills:

Developing historical awareness and knowledge, as a means of knowing and measuring social and political reality (Knowledge and Understanding);

Developing independent judgement, through critical analysis and the integration of sources and information(Making Judgements);

Developing the ability to identify and communicate problems and ideas (Communication Skills).

Methodologies

Lectures, collective discussion on sources or documents.

Online and offline teaching materials

Presentations and documents will be uploaded during the course.

Programme and references for attending students

Students will be conversant with the subjects treated in the lectures and read two books.
Required reading:
1) one textbook on early modern history:

Carlo Capra, Storia moderna. 1492-1848, Milano, Mondadori Education, 2021 (chapters 27 to 30 not included).

2) one monograph

Students not proficient in Italian: please contact the professor about the programme.

Programme and references for non-attending students

Required reading:
1) one textbook on early modern history

Carlo Capra, Storia moderna. 1492-1848, Milano, Mondadori Education, 2021 (chapters 27 to 30 not included).

2) a supplementary textbook

Giuseppe Galasso, Prima lezione di storia moderna, Roma-Bari, Laterza, 2019.

2) two monographs.

Assessment methods

A written exam followed by an oral exam a few days later.

Students not proficient in Italian: please contact the professor about exams and details on assessment criteria (based on knowledge and understanding).

Office hours

Office hours are still online by appointment at present. As soon as possible, office hours will be resumed on Mondays and by appointment.

Programme validity

Two years.

Course tutors and assistants

dr. Tazio Morandini