COURSE SYLLABUS

Current Debates in Social Science

2122-103R-CDSS

Titolo

The course provides a general overview of some of relevant current debates in social science. Every lecture is focused on a different and specific topic and aims at discussing, from different theoretical perspectives and/or methodological approaches, the main questions scholars are dealing with. Recent research is privileged for discussion. Some lectures are organized as a debate between two scholars presenting different and/or opposite perspectives. Lecture topics may vary each year according to trends in social science research.
