

UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI DI MILANO-BICOCCA

SYLLABUS DEL CORSO

Elementi di Storia dei Conflitti

2223-3-E4001N088

Learning objectives

The course aims to retrace moments and forms of social and political violence in the contemporary age and in particular the war experiences of the twentieth century.

Contents

The lessons will focus on the forms of social and political violence from 1870 to the present day. The main focus of the lessons will be the experiences of destruction and trauma processing in world wars.

Detailed program

In the course of the lectures, an overview of the forms and moments of both political violence (terrorism for example) and social violence (such as street riots) from the Paris Commune to the present day will be drawn. However, it is to the experiences of war (and especially the world wars) that special attention will be paid. Indeed, the moments of "destruction" as well as of the cultural elaboration of conflicts represent fundamental places in contemporary history.

Prerequisites

Students must know the fundamental elements of the Italian and European political and social history of the 19th and 20th centuries.

Teaching methods

Lecture.

Assessment methods

Oral exam

Textbooks and Reading Materials

For all students, attending and non-attending, the following two volumes:

1. A. Ventrone, La seduzione totalitaria. Guerra, modernità, violenza politica (1914-1918), Roma, Donzelli, 2003
2. I bombardamenti aerei sull'Italia. Politica, Stato e società (1939-1945), a cura di N. Labanca, Bologna, il Mulino, 2012

Only for attending students, alternative texts can be arranged with the lecturer

Sustainable Development Goals

QUALITY EDUCATION
