Detailed program

The course will focus on the analysis of language, grammar and syntax and on the reading and examination of specific texts, about English language as an international communication tool, as well as globalization, local, national and international tourism, sustainable tourism, cultural heritage, geography, economics. The centre of the course will be the understanding and analysis of specific texts and the acquisition of sectorial vocabulary related to the following topics: Brief history of tourism – Economics and Tourism – World destinations – Types of tourism/tourists – Tourist vs Traveller – Tourist motivations – Globalization – Communication, tourism marketing and advertising – Environment, pollution and sustainability – Tourism organizations – Tourism and the world events – Tourism trends – Transport and Accommodation – Cultural awareness - Cultural heritage – Professions in the tourism industry

Prerequisites

Knowledge of English Language A2-B1 level.

Teaching methods

Two kinds of methodologies will be used: PPP – Presentation, Practice, Production - and skill-based lessons, with pre-, while- and post- reading/listening activities.

Assessment methods

Assessment of students' skills in English is through a written test (compulsory) and the implementation of "tasks", multimedia projects which can be either recorded or presented during the course (more details will be given at the beginning of the course).

The written test consists of a test with questions related to the course (multiple choice, T/F, matrix, completion) and a reading comprehension divided into 4 sections: Section A - with exercises about some relevant words taken from the text to be matched with the related synonyms; section B - with sentences to be completed with an appropriate word so that the sentences reflect the same meaning as in the text and are grammatically correct (fill-in the gap exercise); section C - with some sentences to be marked as True or False.

The list of multimedia projects will be provided at the beginning of the lessons.
