SYLLABUS DEL CORSO

Mutamento Sociale e Vita Quotidiana

2324-2-E3901N073

Learning objectives

1 - Knowledge and understanding - The course will focus on the nexus between social work and different levels of sociocultural change (micro and macro level).

2 - Applying knowledge and understanding - The course aims to enhance students' methodological skills that will enable them to develop research projects on the relationship between social work, social change and life courses, and the future of social work.

Contents

The course aims to:
discuss the relationship between sociocultural change, globalization and social work;
highlight the connection between social change and life courses;
identify global and local challenges for social work in the 21st century.

Detailed program

The course consists of two interdependent parts.

1. The first part will explain the basic concepts for the course (social change, globalization, gender, generations, life courses, everyday life) and provide an overview of the main research techniques needed to set up the research part of the paper.
2. The second part will discuss the most significant challenges affecting Social Work in XXI century and the consequences of sociocultural change and global transformations on people's daily lives.

Prerequisites

Reasonable skills in sociology and social research methodology.

Teaching methods

Lessons and seminars.

Assessment methods

Oral examination. Discussion of a research paper that requires close reading of textbooks, suggested readings and other sources, which students must comprehend, analyze, synthesize, and evaluate. The paper should consist of a theoretical part and a research part to be defined using all required readings and a selection of the recommended readings. The paper should explore one challenge posed by social change to social work to be chosen from the following: environmental crises and sustainability; generational turnover and life course changes; gender inequality and violence against women/GBV; cultural diversity and migration; Covid-19 crisis and post pandemic restart.

The paper may be written individually or in small groups (maximum 3 students/students per group). The paper should not exceed 8 pages (each of 2,500 characters, including spaces, Times New Roman 12 font) in the case of one person; 12 pages (two-person group); 15 pages (three-person group), excluding abstract, bibliography, tables and graphs.

STANDARDS FOR DEFINING THE PAPER WILL BE PRESENTED AT THE BEGINNING OF THE COURSE.
