Course title

Organization and management of educational équipes

Topics and course structure

Topics and articulation of the course

The need to coherently regulate the relationship between people and organizations is one of the main area of interest for businesses that work in the more competitive and innovative fields and also increasingly for non-profit organizations and for public and private institutions working in the management of social-educational services for people (regional institutions, social-healthcare services, schools, public utilities).

The challenge is to build an area of partial meeting between different interests at play, such as to create a "exchange relationship" favourable both to the people (specifically referred to their development projects for their careers and for their life design) and towards the goals of the organization (particularly in terms of quality of services given to clients and beneficiaries, of management economy and to create a base for competitiveness).

This course aims to develop knowledge needed to understand the logics that direct towards this the management and self-development activities inside the organizations, with specific interest towards the field of social-educational services and to the theme of teamwork, and to different ways of cooperation as well as management of working teams focused on tasks and goals specific to social-educational planning and processes.

Articulation:

- The first theme area of the course will be about discussing the policies, practices and techniques to manage selection, education and evaluation of career development for human resources
- A second theme area will be intertwined to those topics, studying the challenges linked to their application in the specific context for the pedagogical-educational professionals, with a focus over managerial socialization of those professionals and over mechanisms that regulates teamwork.
- A third theme area of this course is finally dedicated to the analysis of cases, experiences, research that allows to better elaborate and to use a critical and thoughtful approach towards different organizations, oriented towards different users but linked by the same pedagogical planning.

Objectives

At the end of the course, students will be able to reconstruct and evaluate the presumed effect in organizations of policies, systems and practices of selection, performance management, analysis and development of skills, career management.

At the same time, the course will facilitate the development of a technical / specialist language, which is essential above all for expert training figures who work in close correlation with the personnel functions to interact effectively with other roles and organizational departments.

Furthermore, the aim of the course is to promote the development of the ability to act consciously within work teams in socio-educational contexts, recognizing their dynamics, management techniques, facilitation mechanisms.
