Course title

Foundations of Arab culture

Topics and course structure

The course aims to provide some essential elements for understanding Arab culture, i.e. the cultural aspects that unite the countries where the Arabic language and its dialects are fluently spoken. The course consists of three parts:

1- In the first part, the principles of Islam will be explored. Islam is the religion professed by most Arabic-speaking populations. It has a decisive influence in many aspects of life, not just spiritual.

2- The second part will take into consideration the contemporary history of one of the three geographical areas that make up the "Arab world" (North Africa, the Middle East, the countries of the Persian Gulf or the Arabian Peninsula): North Africa. This is the region closest to us and from which, moreover, most of the Arabic speakers present in our territory come. An overview will also be given of the history of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, which involves all Arab countries due to its political and cultural implications.

3- In the third part some topical themes and cultural trends in the Arab world concerning politics, literature and cinema will be addressed, through seminars and working groups.

Objectives

Have basic understanding of Arab culture. Learn to analyse the multifaceted Arab world in a critical and in-depth way in the aspects concerning: religion, historical-contemporary dynamics, the complexity and dynamism of political and social current affairs.
