COURSE SYLLABUS

Sales and Trade Marketing

2425-2-F7701M098

Learning objectives

The course aims to study sales and trade marketing strategies in the light of globalization, liberalization and market digitization.

Knowledge and understanding

Students will acquire a solid understanding of sales and trade marketing strategies, with particular attention to the effects of globalization, liberalization and digitalization of markets. They will delve into the most relevant theoretical concepts and practices for managing distribution channels, interacting with commercial intermediaries, and how to adapt to contemporary challenges in the global market.

Applying knowledge and understanding

Students will be able to apply the theories and strategies learned in the course to develop sales and trade marketing plans in globalized and digitalized contexts.

Making judgments

Students will be able to critically analyze and evaluate the dynamics of global and digital markets, identifying best practices and opportunities in the context of sales and trade marketing strategies. They will be able to make autonomous decisions related to the management of distribution channels and the relationship with intermediaries, justifying their choices on the basis of an accurate analysis of the circumstances and market data.

Communication skills

Students will develop the ability to communicate sales and trade marketing strategies clearly and convincingly, both in written and oral form.

Learning skills

Students will be able to independently learn the latest trends and practices in the field of sales and trade marketing strategies, staying up to date on developments related to globalization, digitalization of markets and the dynamics of distribution channels.
