Course title

INTERCULTURAL PEDAGOGY

Topics and course structure

The course aims to introduce students to the general themes of education and pedagogy, with particular attention to the challenges posed by cultural pluralism.
Through the intercultural approach, students will be invited to reflect on topics of educational and communicative interest: cultural diversity and identity, the encounter/clash with otherness, the classification of reality and the formation of stereotypes, prejudices, differences and inequalities, racisms, intercultural competences to be developed.

In particular:
The widespread educational climate will be analysed, paying particular attention to the issues of informal education and the role of communication, the possibilities of developing intercultural competences, also as communicators.
Pedagogical reflections will be developed on the narratives that characterise a complex and multicultural society, highlighting the educational relapses of comunication and how the intercultural approach can contribute to the construction of a democratic society.

Objectives

The teaching aims to promote the following learnings.

Knowledge and understanding of contemporary social complexity:

- to develop basic knowledge in the field of intercultural pedagogy;
- to acquire intercultural skills, in order to unveil and criticize dominant cultures and to build dialogues and in-depth exchanges with people from cultures other than one's own.

Ability to apply knowledge and understanding:

- to promote awareness, critical reflection, understanding of issues of diversity and intercultural dialogue;
- to provide knowledge and operational guidelines to act as communicators in contemporary cultural heterogeneity.

Autonomy of judgement:

- developing tools to read oneself within the contemporary multicultural landscape, through participatory lessons and active involvement in critical discussions and peer-to-peer practices.

Methodologies

The course includes 56 hours of in-person teaching.
The teaching proposal consists of interactive learning activities (individual and group exercises, role playing, questions and open discussions - 28 hours) and instructional teaching (theoretical explanation, conceptual deepening - 28 hours).

Online and offline teaching materials

The e-learning page will be constantly updated and the offline and/or online learning materials used during the course will be made available to students in parallel with the lectures.
