UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI DI MILANO-BICOCCA

COURSE SYLLABUS

Medical Profession: Rights, Duties and Prospects for The Young Doctor

2425-2-H4101D280

Aims

The main purpose of this course is to make known to the medical students what will be their obligations, after graduation. Furthermore, the rights of the young doctor and problems and prospects of the medical profession in the coming years will be presented.

Contents

After their graduation, young doctors enter the job market as professionals, subject to obligations, rules and regulations. In addition to duty and professional ethics, young doctors also needs to know their rights and the future prospects of their profession.

After graduation, the Medical Board may be of great support to the young professional.

Detailed program

Rights and obligations of the young professional - roles and functions of the Medical Board - insurance and pension issues – medical and professional ethics - medical specialties - continuing medical education (CME) - future prospects of the medical profession.

Prerequisites

Second Year Medical Students and above.

Teaching form

2 lectures of 3.5 hours each are conducted in a lecture format at the beginning, aimed at engaging students interactively in the subsequent part.

All activities are conducted in person.

The language is Italian

Textbook and teaching resource

Italian Code of Medical Ethics (2014)

Semester

Second semester

Assessment method

Final group discussion

Office hours

By appointment, writing to michele.riva@unimib.it

Sustainable Development Goals

GOOD HEALTH AND WELL-BEING | PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS