

UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI DI MILANO-BICOCCA

COURSE SYLLABUS

Roman Origins of The European Private Right

2425-4-A5810134

Learning objectives

The course will particularly focus on the interpretation of contracts starting from the Roman juridical experience until the modern codifications.

Contents

The course focuses attention on the interpretation of the contract, keeping in mind its historical roots. In particular, the tools used in the ancient world will be considered.

Detailed program

The course, aimed at the study of the Roman foundations of European law, focuses its attention on the theme of the interpretation of the contract considering in particular the Roman legal experience, and then move from the work of Jean Domat to the Civil Code, the Italian Codes and, where possible, references will be made to the law of some other European country.

Prerequisites

Students must have passed the exams of Institutions of Roman law.
Attendance is not mandatory.

Teaching methods

21 lessons of 2 hours held in the first part of the course, which aims to involve students interactively in the next part. All activities are carried out in presence.

Assessment methods

Colloquium on the topics of exam lessons and texts.

Textbooks and Reading Materials

Massimo Brutti, Interpretare i contratti. La tradizione, le regole, Torino 2017, p. 17-100.

Emanuele Stolfi, Gli attrezzi del giurista: introduzione alle pratiche discorsive del diritto, Torino 2018, p. 117-217.

Sustainable Development Goals

PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS
