Short description

The course offers an introduction to the field of research on education and learning, based on a general presentation of the history of the discipline, the main pedagogical theories and models of research, and research communities (scientific societies, journals, conferences) in Italy, Europe and worldwide. Due to the complexity of the field, and fragmentation of the pedagogical landscape, the course can only be introductory and aimed at orienting the students in the diversity of epistemologies, theories, contexts, and communities of researchers. Each student will need to position her/himself in relation to the field, in an active, reflexive and critical way.
