COURSE SYLLABUS

Management - 2

2526-2-E1802M116-T2

---

Learning objectives

The course aims to develop students' critical analysis skills with regard to the most relevant contributions in the fields of business management, strategic analysis, and the creation of competitive advantage. By the end of the course, students will be able to understand the main processes of corporate governance, organization, and strategy, as well as the critical role of resources and actors involved in business development and innovation.

Knowledge and understanding

Students will acquire in-depth knowledge of business management, strategy, organization, and competitive advantage creation.

The course will address major theoretical approaches and the dynamics arising from the diversity of sectoral, institutional, and organizational contexts.

Applying knowledge and understanding

The knowledge acquired will enable students to critically interpret entrepreneurial choices using models and tools for strategic analysis and implementation.

Making judgements

Students will develop critical thinking skills in evaluating decision-making processes and organizational models, assessing the impact of alternative strategies on business performance. They will also be able to reflect independently on the role of firms in the socio-economic environment.

Communication skills

Students will be able to clearly, effectively, and coherently communicate complex arguments and the results of strategic analyses.

Learning skills

Students will develop the ability to independently broaden their knowledge, critically interpreting the evolution of managerial, strategic, and organizational practices in dynamic business contexts

Teaching methods

In-class lectures (including case studies with guest lecturers)
Up to 20%: online lectures

Assessment methods

Written final exam on the whole program (with optional oral examination on the same program at the request of the teacher or student)

The written test consists of:

- multiple-choice questions, aimed to verify in an extensive way the student's knowledge about the whole course program,
- open questions, aimed to assess more in-depth the student's knowledge and understanding of specific topics of the course and their discipline-specific communication skills; open questions include both quite specific questions (which require a short answer) and questions on wider issues (which require a longer answer).

The final grade is calculated as a sum of the scores obtained in the single questions.
