Learning objectives

Marketing I is a module of the Marketing course (13 CFU – Marketing I 8 CFU and Marketing Metrics 5 CFU). The aim of the course is to explore the role of marketing management and its interaction with other business functions. Furthermore, the course aims to examine the competitive dimension of marketing, also in light of its evolution to the environmental trends that have long characterized the markets. In fact, the intensification of global competitive pressure, the sustainability, and the spread of digital technologies have significantly increased the importance of marketing within companies.

The main learning objectives are:

- Develop a knowledge of marketing from both a theoretical and practical point of view
- Know how to distinguish the peculiarities of marketing and its contribution to the generation of value for the company
- Know how to recognize the effects of globalization, sustainability and digital evolution on the marketing strategy
- Share the centrality of the customer as a strategic management philosophy for the company
- Understand the basic principles of marketing planning

According to the Dublin Descriptors, the learning objectives aim to ensure that students acquire:

- 1. Knowledge and understanding: that extend and/or strengthen those of market-oriented business management and allow the development and/or application of original marketing ideas, often in a research context.
- 2. Applying knowledge and understanding: are able to apply their knowledge, understanding and marketing problem-solving skills learned during the course- to new or unfamiliar topics, inserted in broader (or

- interdisciplinary) contexts.
- 3. Making judgments: ability to integrate the marketing knowledge listed above to manage complexity, as well as to formulate judgments based on limited or incomplete information.
- 4. Communication skills: to communicate their marketing analysis conclusions, as well as the knowledge and rationale behind them, clearly and unambiguously to interlocutors.
- 5. Learning skills: have developed those learning skills that allow them to continue to monitor and find information and update data mostly in a self-directed or autonomous way.

In terms of Knowledge, Skills and Competencies, the objectives are to reach a certain level of preparation, in the Marketing topics mentioned above, a level to be articulated in terms of:

- 1. Knowledge: knowledge on analytical, strategic and operational Marketing.
- 2. Skills: skills oriented to the solution of marketing strategy management problems, in order to develop new knowledge and procedures and integrate the knowledge obtained in different areas.
- 3. Competencies: Manage work or study contexts, as well as assume the responsibility of contributing to knowledge and practice.

Contents

This course has both theoretical and practical purposes: it introduces the basic theoretical principles of marketing, and provides the tools to manage the exchange between firms and customers. The first part of the course examines the main analytical and strategic decisions falling under the marketing domain. The second part of the course examines the implementation of marketing strategies; this section mainly regards product, pricing, distribution, and communication decisions.
