SYLLABUS DEL CORSO

Storia del Diritto - A-L

2526-1-LMG01A001-AL

Learning objectives

Applied knowledge and understanding.

This course provides a general overview of the history of the legal systems in order to discover their roots as well as to underline the effects of the social, economic, political, religious changes happened in the centuries and pick out how it has changed the way the law is interpreted, enforced, and taught. Students will be provided with knowledge of legal terms and categories both logical and conceptual. This course is also designed to help students understand the historical evolution of legal system, gain a critical awareness towards the law, study the past to acquire a broader understanding of the modern legal concepts, learn to know the main European schools of thoughts, adopt a comparative approach to study law. Students will acquire knowledge and understanding in the field above specified.

Autonomy of judgment.

The course will provide students with the foundation for understanding the historical evolution of the law, with the aim of generating independent judgment regarding the solutions proposed by legislators, legal scholars, and case law.

Communication skills.

Students will develop communication skills in the presentation and discussion of legal issues, based on logical-legal reasoning, rigor in conceptual language, and the ability to use interpretative tools in analyzing the problems studied.

Learning ability.

Students will be able to conduct independent in-depth research using normative, doctrinal, and jurisprudential sources, and critically analyze legal thought, integrating historical knowledge with that of current law.

Prerequisites

Teaching methods

Frontal and interactive lectures; analysis of historical sources and documents; video and slide show. Lectures are held in presence. In case of need (recoveries, strikes, other particular reasons), some lessons may be delivered online, in streaming mode (synchronous) or asynchronously and recorded, up to a maximum of 8 hours.

Assessment methods

The exam will be oral. Students are required to demonstrate in-depth knowledge of the syllabus and the sources analyzed, critical analysis skills, the development of dialectical reasoning, and knowledge of legal phenomena in a diachronic process. They also must possess command of language and a basic understanding of the main legal institutions, viewed in their historical context. The student's understanding of the evolution of each institution examined will be assessed. The exam will assess the student's ability to independently reflect on the topics under consideration, the ability to connect different historical periods, grasping continuities and discontinuities, and the ability to place facts and institutions within the historical and socio-cultural context of the time. Mid-term written exam: Students who wish may take a mid-term written exam in May (the exact date will be announced later) on a portion of the syllabus, consisting of open-ended questions on topics discussed in class. The evaluation criteria for the written exam are the same as those for the oral exam.

Textbooks and Reading Materials

The program is unique for attending and non-attending students. Attendance is free and no signature is required in class.
