SYLLABUS DEL CORSO

Diritto Romano - M-Z

2526-1-E1402A002-E1402A00201-MZ

Learning objectives

This class provides an introduction to Roman institutional history and Roman private law (knowledge). It helps students become familiar with the Roman forms of legal reasoning (skills).

The course aspires to deliver the following learning outcomes in terms of skills and competences (Dublin descriptors):

Knowledge and understanding

Knowledge and understanding of the theoretical basis of Roman law; capability to elaborate and/or apply the gradually acquired knowledge to new content and original text structures.

Applying knowledge and understanding

Application of knowledge acquired during the course, through exercises of ancient and modern text analysis. Development of the ability to understand the relationship between the ancient society and Roman legal system.

Making judgements

Ability to combine knowledge and deal with complexity, and to make judgements on the basis of limited or incomplete information, including reflection on the social and ethical responsibilities associated with the application of their knowledge and judgements.

Communication skills

Ability to communicate clearly and unambiguously, to specialist and non-specialist interlocutors, their own ideas and considerations, as well as the theoretical basis of reasoning.

Learning skills

Development of learning ability. Aptitude for practising text analysis in a self-directed or autonomous manner.

Contents

Basics of Roman constitutional history; introduction to Roman law-making process; main features of Roman private law.

Detailed program

Roman constitutional history; Roman magistrates and their duties; the role of Roman jurists; the search for a balance of interests between private individuals in various ancient legal areas; Roman legal reasoning.

Prerequisites

None

Teaching methods

Lectures (DE) and classroom practice (DI):

- n. 2 x 2-hour lectures (DE) delivered remotely.
- n. 2 x 2-hour face-to-face lectures (DE);
- n. 20 x 2-hour face-to-face classes, including lectures (DE) in the first part and classroom practice (DI) in the second part.

Assessment methods

Final oral examination (interview), to check the preparation on the topics covered in class and to test the skills acquired.

The oral exam is an interview on the topics (a) discussed in class and (b) those indicated in the recommended study materials.

The examination is aimed at testing the ability to understand and explain in a clear and personal manner the fundamental topics and issues of the discipline. The assessment criteria for the skills indicated are based on knowledge and understanding of the fundamental content of the discipline and the ability to apply the knowledge acquired.

The course "Legal History from Roman Time to the Contemporary Age" (12 CFU) consists of two modules ("Roman Law" and "History of Modern and Contemporary Law" each of 6 CFU). Following the successful completion of the profit examination, aimed at certifying knowledge of the topics for each module, the student is awarded a single final mark.

The course lecturers may agree with the students on the possibility of intermediate examinations, either written or oral.
