

UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI DI MILANO-BICOCCA

SYLLABUS DEL CORSO

Psichiatria e Psicologia Clinica

2526-5-H4101D026

Aims

The course must contribute to the achievement of the following objectives:

- a) identify and diagnose specific mental disorders starting from the biopsychosocial etiopathogenetic theory
- b) identify the most useful therapies for the treatment of patients suffering from mental disorders starting from the guidelines on psychiatric treatment resulting from evidence-based medicine
- c) identify the complexity of the relationship with the patient suffering from mental disorder
- d) understand the importance and use information relating to the psychosocial context in the context of care and rehabilitation of patients suffering from mental disorders
- e) select some fundamental elements aimed at information and psychoeducation of the affected patient from Mental Disorder and its family on central themes such as: the current pathology; the establishment of a valid one therapeutic relationship; the constant improvement of therapeutic adherence and compliance

Regarding clinical psychology: Know and distinguish the areas of application and effectiveness of different psychological interventions (counseling/psychotherapy); recognize the appropriateness of psychological intervention in situations of organic pathology and activate hospital and local psychological resources; competence of self-assessment of the development of one's professional competence and psychological attitudinal changes

Contents

The course provides the student with essential theoretical knowledge relating to behavioral sciences perspective of their subsequent professional application in the clinical field. It allows the acquisition and the deepening of the interrelationships between the contents of neuroscience, psychology and psychopathology, of clinical psychiatric and psychopharmacology in the dimension of complexity and integration of functions of the CNS. This cognitive path is aimed at understanding the most important and most diverse ones psychopathological manifestations present in the psychiatric clinic, both regarding the states of health and frankness disease, with particular attention to the interdisciplinarity of Medicine and Behavioral Sciences, to findings of evidence-based medicine and gender medicine.

Regarding Clinical Psychology: Clinical psychology in the healthcare system; clinical psychological interventions Evidence Based; counseling and psychotherapy; the different psychotherapeutic approaches

Detailed program

see the detailed program of the individual modules

Prerequisites

Knowledge of general pharmacology

Regarding Clinical Psychology: Medical internship experiences in a hospital setting

Teaching form

Lectures, internships and exercises in small groups aimed at offering in-depth analysis on some topics of clinical relevance

Textbook and teaching resource

see teaching units

Semester

first semester

Assessment method

The exam focuses on the topics covered in the teaching modules that compose it.

Written test (for the topics of Clinical Psychology and Pharmacology, with closed and open questions) and oral test (for the topics of Psychiatry using a clinical case and in-depth questions on other topics covered). Evaluation of learning and understanding of the topics covered in the Course.

Office hours appointment by mail: Prof. Giuseppe Carrà giuseppe.carra@unimib.it see details of the single modules

Sustainable Development Goals

GOOD HEALTH AND WELL-BEING | QUALITY EDUCATION | GENDER EQUALITY
