SYLLABUS DEL CORSO

Diritto Bancario

2627-4-A5810182

Learning objectives

At the end of the course, the student will have acquired:

• Knowledge and understanding of the essential dynamics of banking law, with particular regard to the regulation of banks
• The ability to apply the acquired knowledge to the analysis of concrete cases and to the resolution of legal issues related to banking law
• Independent judgment in interpreting regulations and identifying the most appropriate legal solutions
• Communication skills in presenting and discussing legal topics, both in written and oral form
• The ability to learn independently through the analysis of legal sources, academic literature, and case law

Contents

The first part of the course will discuss the functions of the banking system, focusing – within a Law & Economics perspective – on the main obstacles to the circulation of money, as well as on the characteristics and functions of law within the banking system. The second part of the course will address the main issues related to the banking activity, along with the solutions offered by the legal system. The third part of the course will be dedicated to examining the general principles governing contractual relationships between intermediaries and clients, with particular attention to the special regulations applicable to certain banking contracts. In this context, the analysis of the most recent case law and supervisory authority guidelines represents an essential component of the course.
