COURSE SYLLABUS

Training To Approach The Health Profession of Radiographer

2627-1-I0304D006-I0304D00601

Aims

This internship module is aimed at providing the student with a structured knowledge of the organisation of the healthcare facility, with particular focus on the Radiodiagnostics Operating Unit, including Emergency Radiology and Traumatology and Breast Diagnostics. The student will have to demonstrate the ability to establish correct and collaborative professional relationships with the various health care figures, as well as to interact with the patient in a respectful, empathic manner and in accordance with the principles of professional ethics, adopting a communicative approach appropriate to individual clinical specificities.

Contents

The student will be guided in the acquisition of knowledge related to the organisational and functional structure of a Health Facility and, in particular, of the Operational Unit of Radiodiagnostics. In this context, he/she will delve into the roles of the various professional figures present, maturing at the same time the ability to relate to the patient in an appropriate manner, in full compliance with the ethical and deontological principles of the profession.
